

This lovely book is made of selections from scripture set in calligraphy and accompanied by dozens of black-and-white photos of religious art and scenes from nature. The result is a gentle companion for meditation, as well as an unexpected source of fresh insight into familiar themes. Its the perfect all-occasion, no-occasion gift for both others and for yourself. There is no commentary, only scripture for a more direct experience of God. The passages are drawn from several translations, including King James, the Revised Standard, the New English bible, and others. The selections give an overview of the life of Jesus, the basic concepts of Christian thought, the message of salvation, and how the character of Christian living affects our relationships with God and others. A key theme is no prejudice--that is, if your heart is filled with love, theres no room for hatred. With space for personal comments and reactions, this is a scriptural journal and guide for those new to Christianity as well as for believers. While appropriate for all occasions, its particularly helpful for RCIA or confirmation candidates, for the sick or the newly bereaved, and for new parents.
